

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASEH5 AND GUIDEPOST SOLUTIONS, LLC FORM ALLIANCE

Alliance provides corporations, law firms and government agencies with accurate, cost-effective search and analysis solution for compliance, monitoring and corporate investigations

SAN FRANCISCO, CA and NEW YORK, NY – March 2, 2011 – H5, a leading search and information analysis firm, and Guidepost Solutions, LLC, a global investigations and security company, today announced an alliance to provide Guidepost clients with a proven, low-cost and efficient solution for searching electronic document collections. Under the alliance, Guidepost will offer H5’s search expertise and technology to clients in matters requiring review and analysis of electronic information in the context of corporate investigations and compliance and monitoring activities.

“Due to the relentless growth of electronic information, we increasingly encounter matters that involve large volumes of electronic information requiring careful review and analysis to further investigations, compliance, and monitoring goals,” said Bart Schwartz, Chairman of Guidepost Solutions. “By partnering with H5, we can ensure that our clients are getting the most accurate and efficient means to search and identify important electronic information to meet their obligations and find what they need.”

H5 delivers customized products and services to help legal, compliance and investigation teams find the documents that matter to their case. H5’s information classification and review solutions combine advanced technologies with expertise in search and information analysis, and have been proven by numerous independent studies to deliver more accurate results than any alternative. In addition, H5’s information governance products utilize the same proven technology and process to help organizations more effectively detect and monitor risky or compromising activity. Its joint offering with Guidepost will enable clients to manage complex and time-sensitive compliance, monitoring and investigation projects quickly and cost-effectively, while ensuring results of unparalleled accuracy.

Guidepost regularly manages and conducts complex investigations and provides monitoring and compliance services in matters involving civil and criminal litigation and investigations, antitrust, intellectual property, fraud, and white-collar crime. Guidepost clients include large corporations, law firms and government agencies, and span a range of industries including financial services, healthcare, technology, and consumer products. Given the size and scope of discovery and review of electronic information required by Guidepost’s clients, the firm recognized a need for an efficient and cost-effective search technology and proven search expertise to support its existing skills and offerings. Guidepost’s leadership selected H5 due to its proven ability to help clients target and find information that matters while reducing time and cost.

“Organizations with compliance, investigation and legal discovery challenges must be able to quickly and accurately search through electronic information in order to find critical information and meet legal and regulatory obligations,” said Nicolas Economou, CEO of H5. “The combination of Guidepost’s premier services and H5’s search expertise and products will provide an excellent solution for clients faced with document-intensive investigations, monitoring and compliance projects.”
